PROFILE

I am Dominic Decarlo, a Graphic Designer from San Francisco. Using my background of fine arts and my proficiency in problem solving, I work to employ rational and interesting approaches to creative design. I look for things to be fixed, whether it be my garden gate or a complex branding solution for a rising startup. I propose alternatives to existing models and challenge already established ideas of art direction and normative branding. Striving for clear and concise design, I develop these solutions and propose them in easily understandable ways.

EXPERIENCE

San Francisco State University, San Francisco CA — Web and Graphic Designer — May 2018 - Current

Hired to redesign the visual concept and new stylistic approach for the SFSU University Development website. Tara Firma Farm, Petaluma CA —
Farm Hand, Branding Consultant
September 2015 - April 2017

Tara Firma Farm is the largest organic livestock CSA in California, supplying 500+ members with grass-fed, non-GMO, organic produce and meat for the last 6 years. I maintain the value of the land and the health of the animals most mornings and nights. Maintenance includes repairing fences, as well as finding creative ways to use minimal resources to ensure the continued health of the animals and tools we use. I was also responsible for sales at the on-site store, maintaining extensive knowledge of our rotating pasture system as well as the health needs of the animals. Later, I took on graphic design and photography responsibilities for the re-haul of the website, including creation of flyers, email templates, as well as writing and editing new copy for upcoming events as well as serving as a copy editor for the website (tarafirmafarms.com).
